$600,000 missing from Escapade festival till

'Speechless.' Electronica concert promoters say they are shocked after money and one of their partners disappeared

A promoter of last weekend's Escapade Music Festival says $600,000 is missing from the event's coffers and he's reported the disappearance to police as a theft. Michael O'Farrell, vice-president of marketing for the festival, said he was shocked to see the money missing

Monday afternoon following a "successful" third edition of the electronic-dance-music event. He said his partner, Nick Vachon, is also missing and he has not seen or heard from him since 3 a.m. Monday, when the event ended. "I'm speechless," said O'Farrell. "I don't know why anybody in their right mind would do something like this." Escapade took place June 30 to July 1 at the Ottawa Stadium on Coventry Road. Ottawa police would not confirm or deny an investigation is ongoing, but O'Farrell said he expects police will issue an arrest warrant soon.

Alleged fraud by priest leaves church parishioners divided

Scars in wake of scandal. Church says it has retooled its bookkeeping, how it looks after priests

GRAHAM LANKTREE
graham.lanktree@metronews.ca

Accusations that Rev. Joseph LeClair stole more than $240,000 from the collection box at Blessed Sacrament Catholic Church in the Glebe has left parishioners divided.

"There was too much trust placed in his hands," said Holly Doan, whose husband and children attended services there until recently. "They want to help the sinner now, but it's too late for that."

Doan said the parish has expected the news since last August, when police began investigating the handling of church finances between January 2006 and May 2011.

"Many people will still be reluctant to accept this," Doan said of the charges LeClair faces, including fraud over $5,000, theft over $5,000, criminal breach of trust and laundering proceeds of crime.

"As far as the diocese goes he's been a star. But my husband is disillusioned now.

He's been a regular contributor to the collection plate," she added.

Some $160,000 is still unaccounted for and the parish is missing many pieces of furniture and household goods worth $20,000 that disappeared when LeClair left to receive addiction counseling, police said.

"Attendance has been down since Father Joe left," said Rev. Francis Donnelly of the popular priest, who had a way with young people and attracted many to the church during his tenure.

Rev. Donnelly, who has been filling in since LeClair's departure last year, was quick to say the priest has not convicted of a crime.

"Rehabilitation is always possible. We fall in different ways and at different times," he said, indicating the church would consider bringing LeClair back into the fold.

Capital Hoedown. Are answers coming Friday?

The man in charge of Capital Hoedown is promising to take questions on Friday — and perhaps tell the public if the show will go on, where it will be and who will be playing.

Concert International CEO Denis Benoit wasn't in his Byward Market office Wednesday and neighbours in the building said he has not been seen in at least a month.

He has not spoken publicly since Friday when the City of Ottawa said Capital Hoedown will not be able to play at a new venue, Numech Ranch in Stittsville, because of a zoning issue. Benoit has not yet announced if there is another new venue for the show.

Meanwhile, some country-music fans who requested ticket refunds say they have not received them.

Samantha Hartley and James Marcellus told Metro they requested refunds on June 19.

Hartley said she will be out $425 if she doesn't get a refund after buying two three-day passes.

Marcellus said he is hoping for a refund of $657 for two VIP passes.

Metro was unable to speak with Benoit Tuesday or Wednesday. JESSICA SMITH/METRO

Bluesfest begins with electric buzz

Festivalgoers braved the heat on the first day of the 12-day celebration of music to catch acts like alt-rockers Riot Police, art-pop act Loon Choir and German electro band Tangerine Dream

JOE LOFARO
Metro News

Ottawa alt-rock band Riot Police drew a modest crowd of teens and twenty-somethings early Wednesday night playing "slow love songs" as fan Catherine Tellier described them.

"If it wasn't for them, I wouldn't be here," said the 16-year-old as she cut through vocals from her favourite band member, Ian Sabourin. "We can relate to what they're singing (about)."

Tellier was just one of the many festivalgoers braving the heat in LeBreton Flats Park on the opening night of the 12-day music festival.

Before headliner and DJ extraordinaire Tiësto took over the main stage, local acts and international artists entertained the buzzing crowd.

Down at the Black Sheep Stage, indie-rock and art-pop band Loon Choir performed some songs from their new album Fire Poems for a crowd of about 200 people in what few spots of shade they could find.

"We are going to keep rocking out for you guys," yelled a member of the seven-piece Ottawa-based band during the show.

They soothed the crowd with their easy beats and catchy lyrics to songs like Nowhere To Go and Fire Poems.

German ensemble Tangerine Dream seemed to attract the largest crowd early in the evening as they opened up the Main Stage with their Trance-y, synth-inspired soundscapes. The eclectic sound was a fitting as it prefaced headlining act, Tiësto. First-time Bluesfester Rebecca Hartman enjoyed Tangerine Dream with her husband and friend, but the Tiësto eagle emblazoned on her T-shirt gave away who she was really looking forward to.

"I love his music," she said. "It's like ecstasy without doing ecstasy."

Riot Police's lead vocalist Alex Boyd.

Rebuilt truck fires up a pizza in just three minutes

Second life

Where's the fire? It's on the truck

It once put out fires in and around Ottawa, but now this vintage 1967 Fargo fire truck is making pizzas in a wood-fire oven installed in its rear, after Ottawa entrepreneurs Kyle Weisgerber and Jason Paquette, of Canicus Catering, turned a joke into an eccentric business idea. GRAHAM LANKTREE/METRO

Town mourns victim of mall-roof collapse

Funeral. Crowd packs parish to say their goodbyes to one of two women killed in accident that has sparked public inquiry

A capacity crowd packed a church in a bereaved northern Ontario community Wednesday to pay their respects to one of the victims of a deadly roof collapse at a local shopping mall.

Rev. Paul Conway said more than 320 people came to Our Lady of Fatima parish to pay tribute to Doloris Perizzolo, who was remembered as a good neighbour.

The 74-year-old was one of two women killed when a section of roof came crashing through the Algo Centre Mall on June 23.

The accident crippled local commerce in the small community, touched off a criminal investigation led by the provincial police force, and sparked a public inquiry ordered by the province's premier.

Perizzolo was eulogized by a longtime friend who shared memories of growing up side-by-side, and regaled the audience with anecdotes of her friend's kindness and consideration as a neighbour.

Conway said he did not know Perizzolo personally, but urged the community to maintain hope in the face of a senseless tragedy.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Investigation

Outrage over the collapse prompted Premier Dalton McGuinty to order a public inquiry late last week, drawing support from the opposition.

- Police have also launched their own investigation. But OPP spokesman Pierre Chamberland wouldn't comment on a report that the investigation stems from information about the building's record of unaddressed maintenance problems. The Ministry of Labour paid six visits to the mall in the last three years.

No independence from heat. U.S. Fourth of July festivities hampered by extreme temperatures

George Washington never had air conditioning, but he knew how to keep cool: a mansion with lots of windows elevated on the banks of a wide, rolling river and lots of ice cream, maybe with a little brandy.

It was a little like the old days without electricity Wednesday, as the nation's capital region celebrated Independence Day the better part of a week into a widespread blackout that left millions of residents sweltering in temperatures at or above 32 C without air conditioning. Fireworks explosion sets house ablaze

A fireworks explosion ignited on a home's back deck set it ablaze Tuesday night and filled it with smoke, injuring at least nine people, police said.

When police officers and firefighters arrived at the home around 7:30 p.m., there were lots of fireworks in and around it, the police

WMUR-TV in Manchester reported that the fireworks ignited on a back deck.

The nine injured people ranged in age from infant to adult. Two children were taken to Boston hospitals for treatment.

Scientists' 'Eureka moment:' God particle exists (they say)

Cheers, ovations. Crowd hails the discovery of a 'cornerstone,' but is it the real secret of the universe?

The God particle lives!
Well, they're pretty sure it does.

To cheers and standing ovations, scientists at the world's biggest atom smasher in Switzerland claimed the discovery of a new subatomic particle Wednesday.

They called it "consistent" with the long-sought Higgs boson — popularly known as the God particle — that helps explain what gives all matter in the universe size and shape.

"We have now found the missing cornerstone of particle physics," Rolf Heuer, director of the European Centre for Nuclear Research (CERN), told scientists.

"As a layman, I think we did it," he told the elated crowd.

But he also declared: "As a scientist, I have to say, 'What do we have?"

He added: "We have a discovery. We have observed a new particle that is consistent with a Higgs boson."

The Higgs boson, which until now has been a theoretical particle, is seen as the key to understanding why matter has mass, which combines with gravity to give an object weight.

The idea is much like gravity and Isaac Newton's discovery of it: Gravity was there all the time before Newton explained it.

But now scientists have seen something very much like the Higgs boson and can put that knowledge to further use.

CERN's atom smasher, the $10-billion Large Hadron Col-

Theory

1960s

Scientists have long puzzled over how the minute building blocks of the universe acquire mass. Without mass, particles wouldn't hold together and there would be no matter. A theory proposed by British physicist Peter Higgs and teams in Belgium and the U.S. in the 1960s is that a new particle must be creating a "sticky" field that acts as a drag on other particles.

Cash

$10B

The Large Hadron Collider — the atom smasher at the European Centre for Nuclear Research — alone cost some $10 billion to build and run. This includes the salaries of thousands of scientists and support staff around the world who collaborated on the experiments that had but one target: Expose the mystery God's particle.

History

WWW

The massive scientific effort that led to the discovery of what is thought to be God's particle has also paid off in other ways — one of which was the creation of the World Wide Web. Scientists developed the web to make it easier to exchange information among each other. Vast computing power was needed to crunch all the data.

Target

96%

"This is just the beginning," says James Gillies, a spokesperson for the European Centre for Nuclear Research. Scientists will keep probing the newly discovered particle until they fully understand how it works. One other target: They also hope to understand the 96 per cent of the universe that remains hidden from view.

Ocean debris. Seabirds' stomachs show shocking level of plastic pollution

A new study suggests the stomach contents of seabirds show there has been a big increase in plastic pollution off the northwest coast of North America over the past four decades.

University of B.C. researcher Stephanie Avery-Gomm says the amount of plastic a seabird eats provides a snapshot of the garbage that ends up in a big part of the northern Pacific Ocean.

Avery-Gomm says necropsies performed on 67 beached northern fulmars, a gull-like seabird, showed nearly 93 per cent of them had bellyfuls of plastic — everything from twine, Styrofoam and candy wrappers.

She says one bird had 454 pieces of plastic in its gut.

Quoted

"This highlights the need for a reliable, internationally standardized method of monitoring trends in plastic pollution."

Stephanie Avery-Gomm's study

The study, published online in the journal Marine Pollution Bulletin, examined the stomach contents of birds on the coasts of B.C., Washington and Oregon.

Avery-Gomm says the plastic found in the birds is similar to the level in the polluted North Sea.

Hawking hacked! Tiny scanner will delve into famed scientist's brain

What is Stephen Hawking thinking?

Maybe we'll soon know.

An international conference organized by the Canadian creator of the iBrain on Saturday will reveal the celebrated theoretical physicist's thoughts, it's claimed.

"We will present the data we were able to generate from Stephen Hawking," NeuroVigil founder Dr. Philip Low told Torstar News Service.

That data was collected last summer by attaching Hawking to the iBrain, the world's smallest portable brain scanner.

Hawking, who is also a participant in the July 7 conference, is immobilized with the motor neuron disease amyotrophic lateral sclerosis.

Hacking Hawking's brain has given Low and the mind-reading algorithms he developed for his young company, NeuroVigil, their highest profile yet in a quest to re-examine the whole idea of consciousness.

Physicist and best-selling author Stephen Hawking.

TED S. WARREN/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It started, Low said, with zebra finches.

"These animals were able to produce mammalian sleep patterns."

The iBrain has the potential to monitor sleep disorders, autism and depression, Low said.

For the 70-year-old Hawking, whose ability to communicate via machine is deteriorating, it could mean the last stage: "Unlocking a locked Stephen Hawking," Low said.

The conference in Cambridge, England, will be live-streamed on conference.org.

Pakistan. Mob kills man accused of ripping Qur'an

Thousands of people dragged a Pakistani man accused of desecrating Islam's holy book from a police station in central Pakistan, beat him to death and then set his body on fire, a police official said Wednesday.

The incident highlighted the highly charged nature of Pakistan's blasphemy laws, under which anyone found guilty of insulting Islam's Prophet or the Qur'an can be sentenced to death.

Sometimes, however, people take the matter into their own hands.

A senior police officer, Mohammed Azhar Gujar, said in the incident Tuesday in Bahawalpur, a city in a deeply conservative part of central Pakistan, attackers stormed a Verdicts are being prepared in Argentina's historic stolen-babies trial. Two former dictators and a handful of other retired military and police officials are accused of systematically stealing kids of leftists who were kidnapped

20-year-old stabbed after a group of men tell unmarried couple they should not be together

An Egyptian university student was fatally stabbed as his girlfriend looked on after three suspected Islamic militants confronted the couple in a park and told them they should not be together if they are not married, security officials said Wednesday.

The murder is fuelling fears that vigilante groups may be seeking to strictly enforce Islamic mores, emboldened by the election of Islamist President Mohammed Morsi. Moderate Muslims along with liberal and women's groups worry that Morsi's presidency will slowly eradicate Egypt's entrenched secular traditions and change the social fabric of the mainly Muslim nation of 82 million people.

while he was with his girlfriend in a quiet park that is a favourite spot for romantic rendezvous, according to the officials. It was not immediately clear what the two were doing when challenged by the three men who arrived on a motorbike.

But the officials, citing initial testimony of the girlfriend, said the men told the couple they must immediately leave and go their separate ways. An argument followed and one of the three men stabbed Eid in the upper left thigh, near his genitals. He was hospitalized and died of his wounds a week later on Monday, according to the security officials who spoke on condition of anonymity because they were not authorized to talk to the media.

Riot erupts in Ukraine

Language law.
Parliament speaker
resigns after legislature passes bill to upgrade status of Russian language

Opposition activists clashed with riot police in the centre of Kyiv, the Ukrainian capital, Wednesday, and the parliament speaker resigned after the legislature passed a bill that would upgrade the status of the Russian language.

The bill, which must be signed by the president to become law, would leave Ukrainian as the only state language, but allow the use of Russian in Russian-speaking regions in courts, education and other government institutions.

Parliament Speaker Volodymyr Lytvyn to Ukrainian lawmakers.

Members of Ukraine's pro-Western opposition say such a law would effectively smother the Ukrainian language by removing any incentive for millions of Russian-speaking Ukrainians to learn and speak it. They also say it would bring Ukraine back into the Russian orbit and torpedo its efforts to force closer ties with the European Union.

Lawmakers loyal to President Viktor Yanukovich, who draws his support from the Russian-speaking east and south, rushed the bill through Parliament on Tuesday night, without giving the opposition much chance to oppose it in a debate.

Parliament Speaker Volodymyr Lytvyn, who was absent during the vote, announced his resignation Wednesday, calling the vote illegitimate, despite the fact that his own party voted for it. Seven national lawmakers announced a hunger strike.

About 2,000 protesters, some clad in traditional embroidered shirts, staged an angry protest against the bill outside a government building in the centre of Kyiv on Wednesday.

Undead academy: Professional zombies

With Europe in economic misery, new opportunities are emerging in the zombie sector. A company providing zombie experience days is recruiting and training an army of the professional undead.

"We train them how to act in character," Zed Events' head of recruitment Pete Owen told Metro. "We work on timing, movement and subtle voice techniques — from small growls to full screams. The key is to build tension."

Participants in a Zed event have the chance to shoot the zombies with BB guns. HANDOUT PHOTO

Zed Events now has three centres in the U.K. and a zombie staff of around 25. Many have no background in acting, but receive a four-week crash course.

The professional zombies are installed in a derelict house where they stalk and attack the visiting public, who shoot at them with BB guns.

"Accidents do happen," says zombie Tanya Faenowa. "We get training in how to take a hit and fall safely but getting shot can hurt."

Zed Events is set to expand again, with plans to establish centres in the U.S. and Asia. This reflects a wider boom in the zombie economy around the world — research in 2011 found that zombies contributed over $6 billion to the U.S. economy through movies, games and, increasingly, experience days.

The industry continues to grow despite the economic climate. Karl has been able to employ 36 Greek actors at a new House of Fear in Athens, and will take on 113 British actors in the next four months. METRO

'Phablet.' Larger smartphones expected to find consumer niche

Take one part smartphone and one part tablet and what have you got? Phablets, a newer breed of mobile device that's expected to compete with the smaller-sized tablets now flooding the market.

Phablets aren't going to kill tablets or smartphones but they will be a viable niche product, said Sascha Segan, lead mobile analyst for PC Magazine.

There's only one major phablet currently available, the Samsung Galaxy Note with its 13.5-centimetre touchscreen. It looks huge beside the 8.9-centimetre iPhone but is considerably smaller than 17.8-centimetre tablets like Research In Motion's BlackBerry PlayBook and the 24.6-centimetre iPad. LG has also revealed plans to

"Most phablets look like you are holding a slice of bread up to your head, or some other similarly awkward object," Segan said from New York.

Takeover. Maple Group bid for TMX gets nod from Competition Bureau

The longstanding proposed takeover of the TMX Group cleared a number of key regulatory hurdles on Wednesday, perhaps most importantly from the Competition Bureau.

The federal regulator said it will not challenge the attempt to take over the operator of Canada's major stock exchanges by the Maple Group Acquisition Corp., a factor that could have potentially sidelined the transaction.

Meanwhile, the Ontario Securities Commission gave its approval and published final recognition orders for the deal, which values the TMX Group at $3.8 billion.

Maple spokesman Luc Bertrand said the approvals were "a very major milestone" for the consortium of 12 Canadian banks, pension funds, brokerages and insurers leading the bid.

"My understanding is that it was a lot of work between the bureau and the OSC (to) satisfy that post-transaction there would be a regulatory structure that addresses the bureau's concerns," he said in an interview.

Competition Commissioner Melanie Aitken said the bureau had serious concerns, but that they had been addressed.

The proposed takeover still requires approval by the British Columbia and Alberta securities regulators, though Bertrand expressed confidence in both.

The Maple consortium has already extended its deadline several times as it awaits full approval for the plan, which would see it control as much as 90 per cent of trading activity in Canada. THE CANADIAN PRESS

SUMMER TIME IS NOT NECESSARILY FUNNER TIME

HE SAYS...
John Mazerolle
metronews.ca/hesays

Hey, remember when summer weather was something to look forward to?
That was a real nice season we had once.

But now, with soaring temperatures, stifling humidity and more frequent disasters, summer feels vaguely threatening — like a guy who smiles too widely all the time.

Recognizing that extreme weather is still dangerous regardless of the season is only common sense, which makes it impossible for most people.

That's why there can be an extreme-heat alert, a smog advisory, a tornado watch, a skin-pustule warning and a forecast of partly locust-y, and there'll still be some guy on the TV news having a beer on a patio and gushing about the "awesome" weather. If there was a flood he'd talk about how he loves to swim as he floated away on his chair.

Fortunately for you, this column recognizes the dangers and has a few tips to keep the dog days from biting.

As you enjoy this season

"Don't say, 'Hot enough for you?!' This will cause people to punch you in the nose, and they'll be right to do it."

DO drink from a canteen, so that when it's empty you can melodramatically turn it upside down and shake it.

DON'T use a hand fan, unless you're a fading southern belle and can say things like "I do declare — it's hot enough to parboil an egg in my cleavage" without sounding silly.

DO check in on elderly or sick neighbours, so you can get first dibs on their stuff.

DON'T say, "Hot enough for you?!" This will cause people to punch you in the nose, and they'll be right to do it.

DO drink eight glasses of water a day. It's a totally made-up number with no scientific foundation, but people my age have been spouting it our whole lives, so just do it or we'll feel stupid, all right?

DON'T jump headfirst into an oasis, no matter how dehydrated you are. It's usually a mirage. Telltale signs include palm trees growing in Canada and hammocks strung up in major cities. If you're still not sure, toss a co-worker.

DO leave animals in your car, but only if you intend to eat them later. Free-Range Rover is delicious.

DON'T leave behind Conservatives, even if the window is open a crack. When you return, you may find them sweaty and confused, frothing at the mouth and ranting that climate change is a myth. This is normal. If a Conservative says anything logical, call 911 immediately.

Those are the keys to a safe summer, so long as you also avoid gas barbecues, choking hazards, major highways, dying birds, disease-carrying mosquitos and cancerous sunshine.

Remember that if you see any TV reports that show an entire week without any kind of death, disease or disaster, it's probably a mirage. And, above all, have a good time.

Summer is here, that means rule No. 1 is to be extra cautious while having fun — danger looms behind every corner. GETTY IMAGES

Hudson's TV role a segue to Broadway?

After winning an Academy Award and a Grammy, Jennifer Hudson is taking a roundabout route to give theatre a try. She'll appear on the second season of the television musical drama series Smash in a multi-episode arc as a Broadway star named Veronica Moore. On Smash, Hudson will join fellow American Idol alum Katharine McPhee, who's one of the show's main characters. "It's just the perfect opportunity," Hudson, a fan of the NBC show, said in a recent interview. She also admitted the show may be a way for her to ease into an appearance on Broadway.

Knighthood is a dream come true for competitive jousting champ Shane Adams

BACKSTAGE PASS
Jen Traplin
ottawa@metronews.ca

Jousting is a sport of big men on big horses crashing into each other with lances — and Canadian Shane Adams is the biggest name in the game.

Credited with being the founder of modern competitive jousting, Adams holds 17 international titles, is the former president of the World Championship Jousting Association and is also the host of Full Metal Jousting on The History Channel.

Adams' career hasn't always been competitive — the Acton, Ont. native actually started out as a theatrical jousting at Medieval Times, though his desire to be a real knight dates back even further.

"The dream came to me long before working at the dinner show. Growing up on a horse farm in Canada, you either become a hunter-jumper rider or a cowboy. For me, I didn't really want either — I wanted to be a knight. So, I invaded my mom's kitchen cabinets and made a cardboard and tinfoil suit of armour and hopped on my mom's Arabian horses to pretend I was a knight."

When a Medieval Times dinner theatre opened in Toronto in 1983, Adams applied to be in the show and eventually became a knight — but not the kind he had dreamed of being when he was a kid.

"I wasn't a knight in shining armour, instead, I was a knight in shining polyester and tinsel," he says.

"So, I left the dinner theatre to create my own travelling show called the Knights of Valour to try and bring a sense of realism to the show."

The Knights of Valour perform full-contact jousting, carrying solid wooden lances while wearing 140 pounds of armour in what Adams describes as the "demolition derby of the Middle Ages."

Adams also hosts competitions and training clinics and has some words of advice for anyone considering joining the world of competitive jousting.

"It is a very intense sport. You have to have excellent riding ability, excellent physical ability, you have to be able to learn the techniques but, most importantly, you have to have

Wheeling and dealing ain't easy

TV. Vancouver's Liquidator makes his living finding treasures in trash heaps

The fast-paced world of haggling and trading is the theme of the new reality TV show The Liquidator, where it's all about getting the best price for used merchandise.

But it's not as easy as it looks, insists Jeff Schwarz, star of the show and owner of Direct Liquidation, billed as Vancouver's largest liquidator store.

Items for sale can run the gamut from hot sauce to toilet to clothing.

"Anything and everything that you can possibly think of we've picked it up," Schwarz said during a visit to Toronto ahead of the show's premiere, Thursday at 9 p.m. on OLN.

Each of the 13 30-minute episodes shows a day in the life of Schwarz's business, from getting a tip and checking out cheap goods to then finding a buyer and making a deal. Characters include Ron, the soft-spoken general manager of Schwarz's warehouse, and Sheldon the bailiff who always has insider scoops about the source of the next haul.

"I can guarantee you that every show can have at least something completely different," Schwarz says. "And I'm not always a winner."

The 43-year-old illustrated this point with a story from his career, in which his profit on one item was a far cry from what it earned for someone else.

"I had a vase once that sat on my freezer for three months. It had no markings and I put it in a sale and I got $400 for it. A week later I saw it portrayed in an antique collectibles magazine at another estate and it sold for like $7,000."

Schwarz has been wheeling and dealing for about 20 years.

He said he was being told as early as high school that he should be in business rather than pursuing his intended career of forestry. He ended up in construction and hurt his back.

While his injury was healing he was at a Christmas

Quote

"It's a lot of hard work and people can learn something from some of the stuff that goes on. It's totally real."

party where family members were discussing what to do with the possessions of his wife's late great aunt.

"Somebody said we have this estate here and we don't know what to do with it. I was off work anyway so I asked how much did you get offered and the guy said $450 and I said I'll give you 500 bucks, so I started selling stuff at a flea market," he continued.

"Literally for two to three years every Saturday and Sunday I was going to the flea market. I was also going to school at the time because of my back. I had to get out of construction. When I got out of school I realized I didn't have anything or any money.

"I had one last cheque, which was for $1,200, and I bought a whole household of furniture for $1,300... I put it all in an auction and actually did OK and from there moving forward I got more and more involved in buying and selling."

It morphed into a lucrative career in which he has tried everything from working at an auction house to opening a discount store to buying and selling storage lockers.

All the deals on the show are real, said Schwarz.

"It's a lot of hard work and people can learn something from some of the stuff that goes on. It's totally real.... It's not what I say I can get for it. It's actually what it was."

Luck doesn't usually enter into dealing, Schwarz has learned.

"Just because you hear of one guy who buys a painting for $50 and sells it for $200,000 I would probably ask that guy how many garage sales he's went to before he hit one. You know, there is always beginner's luck. I've had some of it. Luck is only self-created so you've got to be that person there seven days a week.

"You've got to be there before everybody else and you've got to beat everybody to the punch. There's always somebody behind your shoulder looking for that same spot, so you've got to make the decision then."

Advice from the pro

Here are some tips from bargain hunter Jeff Schwarz:

- Never pay retail. "If you cough up the asking price, you walk away knowing you've left money on the table. There's always a deal to be had — suck it up and make an offer."
- Have them bring the deal to you. "Someone who really wants to sell their item may offer to bring it to you if they think you're interested in making a deal. This gives you the home turf advantage. So if they're willing to bring it to your door, jump at the chance. They will have already invested the time to come see you and will be even more motivated to make a deal."

- Think fast. "To gain the upper hand in any negotiation, you need to learn to think on your feet. You can learn a lot in the first few minutes of a deal. You may learn how badly they need to sell and that will inform you on how to play your cards. So listen up!"

- Don't be afraid to ask. "You can lessen your risk by really knowing and understanding the product you are buying. Inspect the merchandise for damage and defects. And don't be afraid to call in an expert to help you appraise the item if it's something you're unfamiliar with. Knowledge is power."

- Never let them see you sweat. "Play your cards close to your chest. If a seller can smell how badly you want an item, you're sunk." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Katy Perry: Part of Me

Director. Dan Cutforth, Jane Lipsitz

Stars. Katy Perry, Shannon Woodward, Lucas Kerr

This new documentary shows Katy Perry's genuine affection for her followers — she does daily meet-and-greets and invites audience members on-stage to dance — so it is no surprise that Part of Me is geared toward pleasing her Katycats. Intercut with lively performances from the wildly successful Teenage Dreams tour — six costumes changes in one song! — are musical numbers galore, visits with her slightly grumpy grandmother and interviews with her staff and friends who generally say the kind of things you expect them to. It's only when the tour nears its end and Perry's marriage is in tatters that the movie reveals something other than a carefully manicured picture of the star. The result is a series of vignettes featuring an attractive, talented young woman who seems really nice.

Heidi Klum remains sour on marriage

"I don't know if I'll get married again," Heidi Klum, model and host of Project Runway, tells newspaper Bild am Sonntag.

After seven years of marriage, she separated from husband/singer Seal earlier this year.

"Although I really enjoyed being married. I'm a dreamer. I loved our annual fairy tale weddings that were our big family parties. But sadly, it somehow didn't work out."

That said, she remained optimistic about the future, even if it doesn't involve a partner.

"I think everyone should work on their dreams," she told the paper. "I try to. I look into the future, concentrate on my family and I have to say that I'm happy. There are worse things in life than a separation."

Frank attracts an Ocean of attention by coming out

SAM
CASTONE
Metro World News

A few days after newscaster Anderson Cooper revealed he was gay, an entertainer from an entirely different spectrum also shared something about his sexuality... with potentially groundbreaking results.

"Four summers ago, I met somebody. I was 19 years old. He was too," wrote singer and songwriter Frank Ocean, a member of hip-hop collective Odd Future, on his Tumblr page.

"We spent that summer, and the summer after, together. Everyday almost. And on the days we were together, time would glide. Most of the day I'd see him, and his smile. Sleep I would often share with him. By the time I realized I was in love, it was malignant. It was hopeless. There was no escaping, no negotiating to the women I had been with, the ones I cared for and thought I was in love with."

He goes on, leaving the reader to guess he is either gay or bisexual.

In the hip-hop world, being openly gay is uncommon, and Ocean is the most high-profile urban artist to ever publicly address being with a man. In fact, one of Ocean's collaborators, Tyler, the Creator, has been accused of being homophobic.

About Ocean, Tyler tweeted: "My Big Brother Finally Fucking Did That. Proud Of That Nigga Cause I Know That Shit Is Difficult Or Whatever. Anyway. I'm A Toilet."

Hip-hop legend Russell Simmons wrote on his own blog congratulating Ocean.

"Today is a big day for hip-hop. It is a day that will define who we really are. How compassionate will we be? How loving can we be? How inclusive are we? I am profoundly moved by the courage and honesty of Frank Ocean..."

Ocean has written songs for Justin Bieber, John Legend and Beyoncé, and appeared with Jay-Z and Kanye West on Watch the Throne.

His new album, Channel Orange, debuts July 17.

Brad Pitt

Move over Brad, Doug Pitt has arrived

Brad Pitt once starred in a Super Bowl Heineken commercial, and has made more than 30 ads in Japan alone (for Edwin jeans and other products).

But he better watch out, because his brother, Doug, just scored an ad with worldwide buzz. Appearing in an Australian commercial for Virgin Mobile, Doug (Brad's real bro) is seen as a boring suburban guy wearing khakis, taking an inordinate amount of pleasure from mowing the lawn, cooking and doing other household chores. The gag is that he's the anti-Brad.

Designer presses the limits of patience: 60 hours of fashion in Band of Outsiders' Paris show

Soak up

Summer. Mott 50 is the fashionable solution to sun safety, and co-founder Anne Botica Reilly explains why their label is set to shine

life@metronews.ca

Safety has never been a sexy subject. It's always been a difficult sell, especially for fashion brands.

Ironically, it's a world that attracted Monique Moore and Anne Botica Reilly to launch their sun-protective label Mott 50 (mott50.com).

The brand is named after their old apartment's street (Mott Street, New York City) where the concept came to fruition in March 2011.

Moore and Reilly intended to take full of advantage of the female shift in attitude towards tanning and skin preservation.

Reilly explains, "I have a history of skin cancer in my family, so I have seen the direct effects — my aunt passed away and my mother is currently affected."

However, despite advances in skin care, the reality is that skin cancer among young people is on the rise. The World Health Organisation states that every year 132,000 melanoma skin cancers and two to three million non-melanoma skin cancers occur globally and this is set to rise. This can be attributed to the depletion of the ozone; however, that doesn't free us from our responsibility for self-preservation.

Luckily, UPF (ultraviolet protection factor) clothing doesn't have to resemble a poncho or be as coarse as a hair shirt.

"We could see that a lot of the stuff was not that desirable for women to wear — it's uncomfortable on the skin," Reilly adds, "We have customers who like the fabric and the way that it looks — the added value is that they allow the safety aspect to dominate the aesthetic at the expense of the look."

Reilly admits, "It isn't a high-end fashion brand at all but we do try to play on the trends." Currently, Mott 50 offers wardrobe staples such as cardigans, crewnecks, henleys, tunics, shifts, maxi dresses and short and long-sleeved shirts for guys.

"We look to the designers like Ralph Lauren, Burberry Prorsum and Thakoon, so we do try to make our label a little more funky," says Reilly. The biggest challenge for the design duo is sourcing fabrics. At the moment they use materials such as cotton poplin and bamboo spandex but they're working on expanding their remit.

Mott 50 tunic MOTT 50

The way that the process works is that clothing manufacturers pour in a blend that closes the porosity of the fabric to prevent harmful UV penetrating the skin. Alarming, "the average white T-shirt only has a UPF of five," says the Chicago native. Shocking, but does such a limited collection have any real future, given the amount of skin sun-care products now available? Reilly certainly believes so.

"Advances in sun care actually helps our business. It raises awareness for our products and stresses the need for labels like ours."

As well as being stocked in stores such as Neapolitan, New York, the girls plan to increase their men's wear line next season and are hoping to launch a children's wear collection next summer, which Reilly describes as "a huge market."

Watermelon goes beyond dessert while duck takes over for chicken

1. Glaze: In a blender, purée the watermelon flesh until smooth. Set aside. In a small, heavy-bottomed saucepan over medium, heat the apple jelly, stirring constantly, until it is melted. Add the watermelon juice and stir to combine. Stir in the lime zest and juice, red pepper flakes, jalapeno hot sauce and salt. Mix and taste, adjusting the seasoning if desired.

Ingredients

Spicy Watermelon Glaze:

- 1 cup seedless watermelon flesh
- 1/2 cup apple jelly
- Zest and juice of 1/2 lime
- 1 tsp red pepper flakes
- 1/2 tsp jalapeno hot sauce
- Pinch of salt

Grilled Butterflied Duck with Glaze

- 6-lb duck
- 1 tsp kosher salt
- 1/2 tsp coarsely ground black pepper
- Pinch of cayenne pepper
- Olive oil
- Spicy watermelon glaze

The glaze can be used warm or cooled. It can be refrigerated in a tightly sealed jar for up to 2 days.

2. Heat one side of a grill to medium and the other side to low. During cooking, if you get flaring from the duck fat, you may need to turn off the low side completely.

3. Use paper towels to pat dry the duck. Using poultry or kitchen shears, cut along each side of the duck's backbone and remove it. Turn the duck breast-side up. Open the 2 sides of the duck as if you were opening a book, and lay it flat. Break the breast bone by firmly applying pressure and pressing down. Tuck the wing tips under the upper wing and place on a sheet pan. Set aside.

4. In bowl, mix salt, pepper and cayenne. Brush the duck all over with olive oil. Season lightly on both sides with the spice rub. Place the duck skin-side up directly on the grill grates on the cooler side of the grill. Grill for about 2 hours.

5. After 2 hours, brush the glaze on the duck. Continue grilling for another 20 to 30 minutes, brushing with the glaze 2 more times during the final grilling time. Grill until the juices run clear and the high registers 190 F.

6. Remove the duck from the grill and brush with glaze one last time. Let the duck rest for 10 minutes. Cut the duck into halves or quarters and serve.

Fresh take. Short Rib Sliders & Snow Pea Slaw

1. Heat the grill to high.

2. To make the slaw, in a medium bowl combine the snow peas, carrot, mint, raisins and vinegar. Toss well, then season with salt and pepper. Set aside.

3. Using an oil-soaked paper towel held with tongs, oil the grill grates.

4. In a small bowl, combine the brown sugar, salt, pepper, cayenne, allspice and thyme. Rub this mixture onto all sides of the short ribs. Grill the meat on medium for 3 to 4 minutes per side. Transfer the meat to a plate and allow to rest for 6 to 8 minutes.

5. To serve, pile slaw onto each bun, then top with a piece of short rib. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A sampling from TacoLot in Hintonburg. SAMANTHA EVERTS/FOR METRO

TacoLot fills the void for Mexican fare

It has taken the California taco stand trend about 40 years to make it to Ottawa, but Hintonburg residents are lining up around the block to hang out in a parking lot. Neighbours are sidling up at picnic tables or seeking out nearby benches to chow down at TacoLot.

The California-inspired Mexican food menu is simple with three meat or fish options and one vegetarian option advertised on a chalk blackboard. Homemade soft shell tacos are served open with traditional fillings or even Asian fusion-style like Thai Basil Beef.

Taco sizes are not as substantial as expected for the price. They are big enough to fit in your palms but, unfortunately, ours got soggy and fell apart when we went to scoop up our roasted zucchini and sweet pepper taco.

The Pork Pastor taco

was tender, lovingly pulled and marinated in pineapple, cloves and hot spices topped with juicy chopped tomatoes, chilies and onions. The vegetarian version was a nice mix of refried beans and TVP, but difficult to distinguish because of the spice heat. In both we ordered the platters that came with pico de gallo, rice and leafy salad with a cool herbed yogurt-based dressing and slice of watermelon.

Overall, the fillings ranged from scrumptiously spicy to a little bland. This was helped by the many bottles of house-made hot sauces.

While the concept is on trend, some consistency and wait times need to be sorted out for it to bloom into the neighbourhood treasure it is destined to become.

TacoLot is located at 995 Wellington St. W.

Something different.
Cold, refreshing ciders are a sweet treat to beat the heat

JEFF O'REILLY
For Metro

An invite to meet for an ice cold drink after work on a hot summer day is always a tempting offer, so in an attempt to quench your thirst it's not surprising that one might stray from their tried and true beer choices in favour of a cider.

Ciders continue to grow in popularity and their sales jumped 16 per cent last year as Canadians drank more than 15.8 million litres of imported ciders alone. With so many cool and interesting options available and a wide variety of diverse tastes continuing to be developed, more people are seeking out something new to beat the heat. Here are a couple to keep your eye out for.

Flying off the shelves of LCBOs is Somersby Apple Cider (4.5 per cent alcohol by volume, 500 ml, $2.95) from Carlsberg in Denmark. Poured on tap into a Somersby pint glass over ice it's a clear, pale straw colour with a quickly retreating rocky white head showing off a delicious nose of sweet, fresh cut green apples. The taste of tart and crisp Granny Smith apples and what appears to be a blend of more neutral rounder-flavoured baked apples is up front, before revealing slight hints of cinnamon and sugar. The mouth feel has minimal acidity and is both sinfully sweet and refreshingly clean as the light carbonation is just enough to keep it from being cloying.

Not all ciders are apple based. Pears are also a natural for producing ciders, and the most popular "perry," or pear-based cider, in Canada is Sir Perry Pear Cider (six per cent ABV, 500 ml, $3) from Matthew Clark Brands Ltd. in England. It pours a greenish, pale ginger ale colour with a fizzy head that quickly disappears. The nose tingles slightly before revealing fruity and full pear richness before seeing sweet, then slightly sour but full pear flavours. The mouth feel is slightly prickly and tart, very much like a really dry white wine with a short finish.

New this summer is something very unusual — Re-korderlig Elderflower (seven per cent ABV, 500 ml, $2.80) from Ab Abro Bryggeri in Sweden pours clear and clean and looks a lot like a slightly green tinged sparkling water with a wafer thin head. An intriguing blend of candy-like sweetness up front with pronounced flavours of peach, pears, berries ... maybe a bit of apple with the elderflower/pear hard to find in the taste (but very present in the nose). The mouth feel is sugary sweet and glossy smooth with lively spritzzy carbonation that tingles as the sweetness lingers softly and leaves you wanting more. Truly intriguing and worth investigating.

AHA! And now for the "insider" part. I sometimes get to try things before they hit the market — and I'm more than happy to let you in on this little secret.

Staying true to tradition and using only 100 per cent Hereford U.K. apples, this week Guinness unveils Foundry Golden Apple Cider (4.5 per cent ABV, only available on tap). It pours a rich gold with a bright, white head that settles quickly. The nose is an inviting blend of pure and honest ripe natural apple flavours — well-rounded and very much in the popular British pub cider vein.

Perfectly balanced, not too dry or too sweet, it shows a nice depth and great character. The mouth feel is smooth with light carbonation — not tart or bitter — and finds a nice medium dryness with a short and clean apple finish. It hits all the right notes while missing none — they have done their homework as this is a "cider-licious" experience that provides you a sweet reward at the end of a long, hot summer day. And it will make enjoying an apple a day that much easier.

West Coast influence

British Columbia.
Put these wines on your Vintages shopping list this weekend

IF I HAD $100 ...
TO SPEND
AT VINTAGES

My heart always beats faster when I see that the LCBO Vintages has wines from British Columbia on its shelves.

It is a rare occurrence and my tip to you is that they will quickly sell out. While we patiently await the Senate to put its seal of approval on Bill C-311 (which removes the federal restrictions prohibiting individuals from moving wine from one province to another when purchased for personal use), here is my shopping list of must-buy wines this weekend.

Mt. Boucherie Estate Collection Semillion VQA 2008, B.C. (LCBO #279364, $19.95)

A beauty! Full-bodied white wine with smooth texture and aromas of apple tart with a long, white pepper finish. Serve with barbecued pork chops or blackened fish.

Blue Mountain Chardonnay VQA 2010, B.C. (LCBO #350108, $23.95)

A medium-bodied white wine with a combination of butter and warm spices. Each sip begs you to come back for another.

Malivoire Musqué Spritz VQA 2011, Ontario (LCBO #189670, $19.95)

This wine is always a sign that summer has arrived. A light bubbly is perfect for a picnic with refreshing sweet pea floral aromas and lemon gelato tastes.

Emiliana Novas Gran Reserva Cabernet Sauvignon/Merlot 2009, Chile (LCBO #685792, $14.95)

A big, red wine loaded with black fruit (berries and plums), vanilla and black pepper. It's begging for a steak. At this price buy a case! And it's organic.

Hickinbotham Shiraz/Cabernet 2009, Australia (LCBO #159632, $16.95)

Smooth as velvet. This red wine is concentrated with figs, black olives and dark chocolate with a few tannins. Where's my steak, mate?

GRAND TOTAL: $95.95

Wooden Letter Block Box

The Build

- Buy three pine panels (pictured 18" x 36) and cut two in half.
- The remaining panel will be cut into 2 panels of 17" sq.
- Attach the four sides together with staggered joints.
- Drill pilot holes, countersink, glue and screw together – 3 screws per edge. (see fig. 6).

Trimming the panels

- Cut the trim from the 2" and 3" pine (fig. 4 & 5).
- Start with panel "A" (fig. 4) place boards on box to check fit
- Make the 2" board flush with the top. Ensure that there is a ¼" overhang on both sides.
- Glue back of the board and clamp to the box.

- Screw from the inside of the box with pre-drilled holes and countersink the 3 screws.
- Repeat for two sideboards and bottom board.
- Rotate box 180 degrees and attach the trim on panel "A" and repeat the first step.
- Flip box 90 degrees and attach the "B" panel (see fig. 5).
- Flip 180 degrees and attach last panel to the box.

Top and bottom

- The 3" trim will extend 1 1/2" past the edge of the lid panel
- Start with top strip, glue and screw it, then attach the two side strips then the bottom piece.
- Allow glue to set
- Meanwhile, cut some 2" pine and glue and screw it on the bottom of the pine panels to support the bottom panel.

- Drop in the bottom panel from the top, glue and screw from the bottom.
- Cut 4 3" square blocks and attach to each corner allowing wheels to be fixed to the box.
- Cut the quarter round molding to the bottom edge of the box and glue in place.
- Cut the molding and run it down the inside corners up to 3/4" from the top.
- Uncovered screw holes should be filled with wood filler and give the whole thing a thorough sanding.

Instructables: 'The world's biggest show and tell'

DIY. How a personal project developed into a professional business model — founder and designer Eric J. Wilhelm dishes on his website and some of its wacky intentions

RICHARD PECKETT
richard.peckett@metro.lu

Yes, it sounds like the latest do-gooder, superhero movie but Instructables.com is in fact a globally-known self-help site with projects and solutions for everything from technology to food recipes.

The concept behind the platform was born from founder Eric J. Wilhelm's passion for building his own kite-boarding equipment during the sport's early beginnings in 2000. He recalls, "Half of the kit would perform spectacularly and half would fail spectacularly — the coast guard was called on multiple occasions."

He documented his progress on his personal website, which soon garnered the attention of fellow kite boarders who were keen to discover the designer's tips. The California-based Wilhelm says, "It was taking just as long to write a web page on how to make a kite board as it did to build the equipment — I needed a tool to make that easier."

Does yours look like this? CONTRIBUTED

His solution was to set up Instructables.com, a spin-off of Squid Labs (engineering design and technology innovation company), which he co-founded with a few M.I.T. alumni. In layman's terms, Instructables is as stated in "How to Start a Business" (yep, there's an instructable for that too): "the world's biggest show and tell" platform for users to upload projects and solutions.

Wilhelm says that in just six to nine months they had almost one million visitors. "We ran the site for five years and in August 2011 we were acquired by Autodesk." In an age obsessed with documentation and social networking, it seems likely that the Instructables' community of like-minded DIY-ers will continue to flourish.

Etiquette

Dealing with stinky summer feet

CHARLES
THE BUTLER
askcharlesthebutler@
metronews.ca
For more, visit
charlesmacpherson.com

With summer here, I loathe to wear socks. How can I wear my shoes without socks, and how can I keep my shoes — and feet — from smelling? Also, is there an etiquette when it comes to going sock-less when you visit a friend's place? Should you remove your shoes?

First, let's make sure you are wearing the right shoes! If you are going to go "sock less" than traditionally you would never do so in laced shoes. Usually the shoe that is used is a "loafer" style shoe.

Now remember this is a casual style of dressing and is most appropriate socially. You should never go to work or out for a business dinner dressed without socks, it is just too casual a dress attire.

Now the problem with feet no matter who you are is that they naturally perspire (sweat), thus leather or plastic shoes combined with sweat generally smells.

So what to do?

First to state the obvious, clean fresh-washed feet are an important must. Secondly, let your shoes air dry with a dash of baby powder or talcum powder to absorb the moisture and help remove it.

Now the etiquette of when to wear shoes "sock-less" is also important.

If you know you are going to go to someone's home and be asked to remove your shoes, then never go "sock-less" as it is rude to walk around their home in your bare feet, even if you have clean feet.

If you arrive somewhere unexpectedly, and must remove your shoes, then always ask for a pair of slippers.

Now go enjoy the summer in your bare feet on a beach somewhere!

NHL. 'Great day in the history' of Wild as Parise, Suter announce free-agency decisions

The Minnesota Wild were a starless team in need of a big-time jolt to get the franchise back to the point of being worthy of playing in "the State of Hockey."

The jolts don't come any bigger than this.

The Wild landed not one but both of the NHL's top prizes in free agency, signing forward Zach Parise and defenceman Ryan Suter on Wednesday. Each deal is for 13 years and $98 million, according to three people familiar with the contracts who spoke to The Associated Press on condition of anonymity because the team did not release details.

"WE GOT 'EM!" the Wild announced on their Twitter account early Wednesday afternoon, sending shockwaves across the league and through a devoted fan base that was starting to show signs of apathy after missing the playoffs for a fourth straight season.

Parise, the former New Jersey Devils playmaker, and Suter, who paired with Shea

Weber on the Nashville blue line, were regarded the cream of what was a thin free agent crop, and each had spent the past four days poring over numerous offers from several teams before making a decision.

"This is a great day in the history of the Minnesota Wild,"

GM Chuck Fletcher said in a conference call.

Maybe THE greatest. The Wild have had a relatively nondescript existence aside from one stirring run to the Western Conference finals in their second season.

Parise knows the history well, having grown up in the Twin Cities. So he recruited his friend Suter to come help out the hometown team.

"We kept in touch throughout this whole thing and we decided that we thought for both of us that the best fit would be Minnesota," Parise said in a conference call. "We're excited that it worked out and we get a chance to play with each other."

One person said that even the breakdown of the contracts is exactly the same, with both players getting $12 million in each of the first two years. The deals then go down in value, with each player making $1 million in both 2023-24 and 2024-25.

And it's a relative homecoming for Suter, who is from Wisconsin, as well.

"It came down to where I felt my family would like to live," Suter said. "My wife's from Bloomington, Minnesota. That had a lot to do with it. Minnesota has a lot of good young players that I think will help make this team successful." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NBA. Raptors, Knicks spurned as Nash free agency saga takes Hollywood turn

Steve Nash GETTY IMAGES FILE

And in the end, it was neither the Knicks nor the Raptors who won the Steve Nash sweepstakes.

According to several published reports, the Los Angeles Lakers — bitter division rivals of the Phoenix Suns — will get the 38-year-old free agent in a sign-and-trade deal involving draft picks.

If that's how it turns out — and no deals can be signed until July 11 — it will end one of the more drawn out free agency sagas of the past few years and one in which the Raptors were firmly involved in until eventually being rebuffed.

The Lakers can offer Nash a starting salary of about $9 million (all figures U.S.), about $2 million or $3 million below what Toronto offered. There was no indication on the length of the deal or the number of draft picks going to Phoenix.

It will be a huge blow to the New York Knicks, who were seemingly close to adding Nash in the middle of the day, and to the Raptors, who took their best shot at signing the most significant free agent from another team in franchise history.

Horoscope

♈ Aries | March 21 - April 20.

You will get what you want just when you want it today and will overcome your rivals with ease.

♉ Taurus | April 21 - May 21. Be clear in your mind what needs to be done and do it now, this very moment – not at some ill-defined date in the future.

♊ Gemini | May 22 - June 20. Before you go sticking your nose in other people's business today you would do well to remember that the most productive changes you can make are to your own affairs.

♋ Cancer | June 21 - July 22. You are determined to prove you have what it takes but don't go too far and risk turning people against you.

♌ Leo | July 23 - Aug. 22. If there are things in your life that you want to improve, now is the time to identify them and prepare yourself for the changes you will have to make.

♍ Virgo | Aug. 23 - Sept. 22. Because you are a creature of habit you don't like to rock the boat, but the planets are now urging you to try something different, even if it means turning others against you.

♎ Libra | Sept. 23 - Oct. 22.

If you see something you desire today you must seize it for yourself before your rivals beat you to it.

♏ Scorpio | Oct. 23 - Nov. 21. Try not to feel too hard done by if an authority figure forces you to change what you are doing today because in the long-term you will benefit in ways you cannot yet see.

♐ Sagittarius | Nov. 22 - Dec.

21. This will be one of those days when everything goes right without much of an effort but that is not an excuse to sit back and do nothing.

♑ Capricorn | Dec. 22 - Jan. 20.

Take upheavals in your stride today and refuse to get annoyed when things don't work out the way you expected.

♒ Aquarius | Jan. 21 - Feb. 18.

You will have to let a friend or colleague down today and it may not do your relationship a lot of good.

♓ Pisces | Feb. 19 - March 20.

Ignore what everyone else is doing and do only what feels right to you. Come the weekend it will be apparent that you were right and they were wrong but try not to gloat about it – too much.
